A broken past. A desperate present. And a future that might just depend on each other.

Katie

All I want is a break. Since my parents died, I've done nothing but work, raising my little brother and scraping by. Now, with bills piling up, I have no choice but to rent out my room. I never expected him to be the only decent applicant: The one person I swore I'd never let back in.

How am I supposed to live under the same roof with the man who broke me?

Paxton

Narcissism. For years, I thought I was just reckless. Turns out, my demons have a name. Fighting them is a battle I'm barely winning, and there's only one person I trust to keep me from losing it all.

Katie.

She was the first one I let down; the only one who ever truly saw me. So when I learn she's renting a room, I don't hesitate. She doesn't want me here. I don't blame her. But I need her... and maybe, just maybe, she needs me too.

Living together again is a mistake. But what if it's the only way to make things right?
